Dinner at Schofield Barracks.

An enjoyable affair of this week was the dinner given by Maj. Guignard at his quarters at Schofield Barracks on Thursday evening, prior to the hop at the officers' club. Bright flowers and ferns were arranged for the table centerpiece. The guests included Col. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Andrews, Mrs. Harrison Hall, Col. S. D. Sturges and Capt. Harry C. Williams.

Sunshine Club Dance.

On Saturday evening, November 28, a most delightful dance was given by the members of the Sunshine Club at the home of Mrs. T. P. Harris, Anapuni street, which was beautifully decorated in the club colors—green and white. The chaperones were Mrs. W. F. James, Mrs. John Hills and Mrs. T. P. Harris. The members of the Sunshine Club are Misses Ruth and Naomi James, Evelyn Webster, Verr and Thelma Harris, Nellie Phillips, Alma Ferguson and Eleanor Hills. The guests were Misses Grace Erickson, Ida Hingley, Margaret Keppeler, Marguerite Hills, Jorgine Jensen, May Jensen, Edith Bull, Virginia Williamson, Josephine Evenson, Ethel James, Maud Manning, Mrs. M. C. Harris, Messrs. John Hollinger, Wm. Hollinger, James E. Elton, Edward Lawson, W. A. Anderson, Norman Osg, Elmer Evans, M. C. Harris, Vernon Harris, Sydney Nicholson, Harold Hartop, C. Snell, Ned Hingley, Percy Bull, Arthur Fane, Al Lee, John Galbraith, Glenn McTaggart and Reuben Lim.

St. Clements' Sale.

The members of St. Clements Guild of Women are busily planning for their sale, next Saturday, but they are working quietly and will have some very good and very pretty things to offer. It was thought to be wisdom that rather than have a conglomerate collection of articles and food to "speculate" in certain directions. Cake and candy (homemade), bags of rolls and all of the best are the lines laid down. There may be a few deviations from this rule, but the above-mentioned are what one may expect to find at the sale on Saturday, December 12, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Occupation Between Dances.

A new fad has been taken up in Europe and on the mainland recently which may interest Honoluluans who are following the European strife. At the beginning of the social season it was thought that perhaps there would be no season this winter and that all the gay functions would be indefinitely postponed. The atmosphere became monotonous, however, and women who for years have spent much of their time with friends, became bored. It was all very well, they said, to knit stockings and make shirts for the army or to make clothing for the suffering populace of Belgium, but to do it all the time was dreary work.

Then a brilliant woman came to the rescue. She said they would take up the thread of gaiety, but even at card parties some time should be devoted to sewing or knitting. This woman gave the first large entertainment and the little engraved invitations were inscribed with the words, "Bring Your Knitting." So, after cards had been played for an hour or two the knitting bags were brought forth and the needles made to fly. The younger set took to sewing between the dances and while the intermission may be a little longer the time passes quickly, and society girls find time for parties and are able to accomplish something worth while, too.

Miss Genes, the pretty danseuse, has started the fad among the women of the stage and while waiting for their cue many of the best-known actresses on the stage today are busily sewing or knitting.

It is since the outbreak of the war that the society women of America have objected to being called the "Leisure Set." For with the war they discovered that with a little practice they could help their European brothers.

The clubwomen in particular say they have no leisure, all their time being taken up with their work. The "clinging vine" of the last generation has changed into an independent self-supporting individual, who has a place in life to fill.

Some of the society women claim the "leisure set" is a misnomer in the face of the strenuous efforts that are made by them in planning and carrying through to a successful conclusion their various entertainments.

The Princess Kawanakoa Entertained.

The Princess David Kawanakoa, who has been traveling for the past year, has recently been heard from in Washington, D. C., where she has taken a house for the winter, and where she is figuring prominently in Washington society, for the princess' delightful manners have charmed society at the nation's capital.

A recent entertainment given for the princess in New York was that at which Wade Chance of Pasadena entertained at the Ritz Carlton. The guests included Princess Kawanakoa, Judge and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Prince Rospigliosi and Princess Rospigliosi of Rome, Mrs. Adolph Ledenberg, Mrs. Miller Graham, Lady Victoria and Mr. James Cox Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wellman, Miss Helen Chance, Mr. Sidney Dillon, Mr. Courtland Palmer, Mr. Albert Morris Bagby and Mr. Etienne Markowski.

The affair was followed by a theater party.

San Francisco's Military Pageant.

For two months or more the army ladies of San Francisco have been preparing for the huge military pageant they are to give early in January for the benefit of the Belgians.

The elaborate pageant will include the five wars of the American nation, and will be brilliantly staged, for no expense is being spared in preparing the function, which is to take place on January 15. The men in the "show" will include all of the younger officers and some of the older ones, while the ladies who have been asked to take part in the affair are from all the exclusive social sets in the bay cities.

The announcement that Gen. Funston would return from Vera Cruz before the great event has greatly pleased the army ladies, who are working so tirelessly for the success of the entertainment.

Many of the army ladies on committees are well known in Honolulu. The chairman of the committee is Mrs. Arthur Murray, wife of Maj. Gen. Arthur Murray, and she is being assisted by scores of other ladies at the California posts, among them being Mrs. Frederick Funston and Mrs. Peter Marquart, both of whom were formerly in Honolulu and have a great many friends here.

Some of the San Francisco patronesses for the affair, who are known in the islands are Mrs. John D. Spreckles, Mrs. Rudolph Spreckles, Mrs. Templeton Crocker, who was known here as Helene Irwin; Mrs. Timothy Guy Phelps, who visited her sister, Mrs. Theodore Lansing, some years ago; Mrs. R. P. Schwerin, who visited Honolulu two years ago, and Mrs. William Matson, who resided in the islands a number of years.

Dinner at the Country Club. Copers were laid for ten at the pretty appointed dinner at which Miss Hazel Buckland entertained for Lieut. and Mrs. Paul Bates (Ray Bell) at the Country Club on Wednesday evening.

ing, prior to the Country Club dance. Dainty baskets filled with sweet peas and maidenhair ferns were attractive as table decorations. Miss Buckland's guests included Lieut. and Mrs. Paul Bates, Miss Ruth McChesney, Miss Margaret Connor, Miss Vivian Buckland, Miss M. Chapin, Dr. and Mrs. F. Trotter, Dr. Derby, Lieut. George Haloran, Lieut. Charles Lyman, Lieut. Daniels and Dr. Hooper.

After dinner the guests remained to participate in the dance given by the members of the Country Club.

Wedded in Portland.

The following announcement has been received:

Rev. and Mrs. Robert E. Smith announce the marriage of their daughter

Marjorie Mayme to

Mr. Edward Roberts Tracy Friday, November Twentieth Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Tracy is a Honolulu boy, well-known as "Red" Tracy, having lived here since he was four years old, the son of Mrs. Tracy Lando. He left here in September and the young couple will make their home in Portland. Miss Smith left here when Rev. Mr. Smith exchanged the pastorate of the Methodist church for his present pulpit in Portland.

Mrs. Donald Ross Entertains.

One of the pretty informal affairs of this week was the bridge tea at which Mrs. Donald Ross entertained on Thursday afternoon at her home in Manoa Valley. There were sixteen ladies present.

They Catalogue the Men.

The young men of Santa Rosa, Cal., have been told to beware, for the dainty maids of that county have recently formed a Girls' Protective Association, and the duty of the secretary of that organization is to catalogue the eligible men in town, and some of the non-eligibles too, it seems, those who are characterized with the undignified term of masters.

The system is simple and any girl, whether a member of the association or not, may call upon the secretary and look over the index. The following letters are to be employed in the rating and are to follow the names of Santa Rosa's young men: G, good catch; W, good catch but wily; A, has automobile; D, good dancer; L, live one; G T, good thing; can be played to any limit; M, mushy, has proposed to seven different girls; N, nutty, has proposed to one girl seven times; T, trifter; S, slow, needs leading; Z, can't be led; B, blazes in public; T, tight, and H, hopeless.

Through this card system the girls believe that they can protect themselves from worthless chaps who have nothing solid back of affection to offer them. How would Honolulu's young men like such an association?

Mourning by Many.

Thelma Parker Smart was beloved in other cities as she was in her Hawaiian homeland. The society columns of the San Francisco Examiner have paid the following tribute to the memory of this daughter of Hawai: "Even those who knew Mrs. Thelma Parker Smart but remotely felt a pang of deep sorrow at the passing of her tender young life, for a more beautiful spirit than hers never lent its divinity to dust. She was barely past twenty and yet in that brief time had shown a staminal of a noble character. Born to the purple she had everything in a material way that life could offer and she responded to the generosity of the fates by giving with a royal hand, doing so wisely, with a forethought and judgment far beyond her years.

"When little Thelma became of age some three years ago they had a great celebration at her home just outside of Honolulu, an eight-day feast at which all the families on her ranch, the children and the parents and the grandparents came for miles around. It was a great celebration and Honolulu talked about it for a month. There were native singers and dancers and a real native feast, for the young heiress is descended from a family that used to queen it over the islands and she inherited their love of gala entertainment. Yesterday they took her ashes and those of her baby which died from privations encountered in the war zone, back to Hawaii.

"Then on the day that she was 18 the little black-eyed lassie whom everyone loved for high spirited goodness and joy of life, they gave her her fortune—represented by deeds to a small kingdom, the acres supporting tens of thousands, vast sugar plantations, and so on.

"The young girl took this and divided it into four portions, dedicating the income from one fourth in perpetuity to providing for the poor of Honolulu—bettering their educational advantages, giving support to some of the hospitals and so on, assisting them in a truly altruistic spirit. One fourth was given to the city of Honolulu for improvements which were specified in the gift. The income from another fourth was presented to her mother, Mrs. Frederick Knight of this city, and the remainder she kept for her own use. That one so young should manifest such generosity is setting an inspiring example of selflessness that atones for much selfishness one sees in the world.

"To those who were within the circle of the young woman's beautiful character, the recollection of her makes memory sweeter, and enlivens the hope that what is good never really dies, but passes on to life as 'the sweet presence of a good diffused.'

Kunalo Club to Initiate.

On Tuesday, December 8, the Kunalo Rowing Club is to initiate five new members. After the initiation there is to be an informal dance, for which about 30 invitations have been sent out to friends of the members. The dance will start at 8:30 o'clock.

A Birthday Dinner.

Celebrating her birthday, little Bernice Jaeger entertained at a prettily appointed dinner on Thursday evening for a few of her girl friends. The color scheme for the decorations was red and green and was carried out to the smallest detail. A centerpiece of red Hawaiian holly and ferns ornamented the table, while the place of each guest was marked with a bright red bon-bon, and these when opened were found to contain varicolored bonnets which were worn through the evening. Among those present were Miss Iwaleia Jaeger, Miss Harriet Waterhouse, Miss Elizabeth Waterhouse, Miss Dorothea Cooke, Miss Martha Cooke, Miss Elise Phillips, Miss Margaret Phillips, Miss Louise Watkins, Miss Constancia Constable, Miss Sybil Hocking, Miss Gretchen Bierbach and Miss Bernice Jaeger.

European Court Ladies in Mourning.

Americans as well as citizens of other neutral countries have expressed all their sympathy for the widows and are looking forward to this meeting. When the ladies of the College Club rather at the University Club on Tuesday afternoon they will discuss plans taking steps towards introducing a bill in the legislature compelling medical examination of all the school children.

The ladies who will preside at the tea tables are Mrs. David O'Brien, Mrs. Paul Super, Mrs. Arthur Kellar and Mrs. Gibb. They will be assisted by Mrs. Mather and Mrs. Frederick W. Phisterer.

Society at Baseball.

Society was well represented at the initial game of the All-National and All-American series at Moiliili Park on Thursday afternoon, teas and other entertainments having been neglected for the afternoon. The enthusiasm displayed by the ladies was plentiful, and from the amount of applause each team received it was evident that nearly every occupant of the grand stand had "taken sides."

Some of those noticed at the game were Mr. and Mrs. George Beckley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shingle, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McGonagle, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. High, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Cyril Hoogs, Mrs. Frank Hoogs, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Castle, Mrs. W. L. Moore, Mrs. Fritz Henshaw, Miss Marian Chapin, Miss Catherine Lenthian, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds McGrew, Dr. and Mrs. George Herbert, Miss Rose Herbert, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. James McCandless, Mr. and Mrs. John McCandless, Lieut. and Mrs. Frank Appin, Captain and Mrs. F. H. Foucar, Miss Alice Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Young, Miss Ruth Anderson, Miss Pauline Schaefer, Mrs. Alfred Castle, Miss Harriet Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. John Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Rice, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis, Jr., Miss Alice Macfarlane, Miss Peanne, Mrs.

orphans of the soldiers who are fighting, and speaking of the soldiers it is generally understood that we mean the poorer men who have answered the call to arms. While the men of the countries are engaged in killing each other we have imagined that the women of the royalty have continued their informal social gatherings, though sewing rather than cards has been said to occupy the time of the queens and princesses.

Few seem to have stopped to think that queens and princesses are women, in spite of the position they hold in the world, and that they mourn as deeply for their kinsmen who have been killed or wounded in the strife as do the women of the poorer classes.

The Duchess of Roxburghe is spending her time at the bedside of her husband, who was wounded when fighting as a captain of the Scots Guards. The Duchess of Devonshire, too, has lost a kinsman, and though her mourning is as deep as that of her sisters, she is aiding her countrywomen to wear a band of white ribbon rather than the depressing black symbol of mourning. Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, known in America as the barefoot dancer, is nursing her husband, who was wounded while fighting with the Black Watch Highlanders. Perhaps Queen Victoria of Spain mourns more deeply than these other women, for her favorite brother Prince Maurice of Sattenburg was killed while leading his British troops. Viscountess Acheson's husband, too, has been wounded. Mrs. Cecil Bingham, another favorite of the English court, mourns the loss of her stepson, Lieut. David Bingham, who was killed with the Coldstream Guards.

There is hardly a woman in the Royal families at any of the courts whose heart is not heavy with grief, yet they try to cheer those about them. Many, however, have sought relief from this mourning on the field, where they have joined the corps of Red Cross workers.

Lieut.-col. and Mrs. F. P. Reynolds Entertain.

One of the prettiest affairs of this week was the dinner at which Lieut.-col. and Mrs. Frederick P. Reynolds entertained on Friday evening at their home in Nuuanu valley. Ornamenting the center of the table was an ivory basket filled with scarlet poinsettias, while crystal and silver lights cast a bright glow over the guests. Covers were set for Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Case Deering, Col. and Mrs. Charles S. Bromwell, Maj. and Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, Capt. and Mrs. John R. Thomas, Mrs. Harrison Hall, Maj. Matthew De Laney, Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mrs. Robert Couvain, Mr. and Mrs. Athol McBean and Lieut.-col. and Mrs. Reynolds.

For Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter Mrs. Catherine Bodrero was hostess at a prettily appointed dinner on Tuesday evening when she entertained in honor of Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, who are sailing this evening for the mainland.

Meeting of the College Club.

The cards bearing notices of the meeting of the College Club next Tuesday afternoon say that it will be "An Acquaintance Tea." Just what an acquaintance tea is has not been revealed but the members of the club
